

Pet Food Manufacturer Obtains Settlement in Slack Fill Cases

PRIMARY INDUSTRY

Consumer Products

RELATED INDUSTRIES

- Consumer Products
 - Food & Beverage
-

RELATED PRACTICES

- Consumer Product Safety

Key Facts

- Suits filed in two different California state courts
- Alleged violations of California and federal regulations
- Suits involved nonfunctional slack fill

The Situation

Our client, a manufacturer of pet food products, was sued in two different state courts for alleged violations of California and federal regulations relating to nonfunctional slack fill.

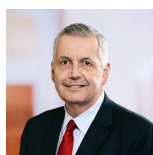

The Approach

After evaluating the complaints, it was determined that the best and most efficient approach would be to file a motion to dismiss.

The Outcome

While the motions were pending, the actions were resolved in a very favorable settlement for our client.

Professionals

Daniel J. Herling, Member / Co-chair, Product Liability Practice
San Francisco, Los Angeles
DJHerling@mintz.com
+1.415.432.6103