

Court to Sen. Hershey: Tear Down Those Signs

July 30, 2014 | Blog | By Susan Neuberger Weller

VIEWPOINT TOPICS

- Trademark & Copyright
 - Trademark Litigation
-

RELATED PRACTICES

- Trademark & Copyright
 - Federal District Court Patent Litigation
-

RELATED INDUSTRIES

- Food & Beverage

An update to our prior post on the trials and tribulations of Maryland State Sen. Steve Hershey in his trademark battle with The Hershey Company can be found in an article I wrote for LAW360, which is accessible here. As always, we will post any updates to this case as they develop.

Authors

Susan Neuberger Weller, Member

Susan Neuberger Weller manages the Trademark & Copyright Practice at Mintz. Susan assists clients with securing and protecting IP assets across the globe. She's worked with clients in a variety of industries, including pharmaceuticals, medical devices, software, electronics, and entertainment.

More Viewpoints

Hershey Is Not So Sweet on Maryland Senator's HERSHEY Campaign Logo

June 10, 2014 | Blog | By Susan Neuberger Weller

Read more