Don't forget to join us tomorrow afternoon – Tuesday – at 1 PM ET for a webinar discussion on the New EU General Data Protection Regulation. What's next? What are the key changes? What do you need to do to prepare?

Registration is here.

About this webinar – The European Union's new General Data Protection Regulation overhauling EU privacy laws has been finalized and is slated to become law early in 2016. The GDPR provides for eye-watering fines that make it vital to make the best use possible of the two year implementation period. Board members, CEOs, CTOs, CIOs, and other senior managers will want to understand quickly what the implications are for their companies and consider changes they may need to make to their business processes – or even to their entire business model. With that in mind, we are offering a pre-holiday webinar for companies that want to get a running start on the 200-odd pages of new obligations and restrictions. The webinar will summarize the key changes in EU privacy laws under the GDPR. We will also provide an initial road map for steps companies should take now to ensure they will be able to comply with the new laws, and – with some strategic planning – minimize disruptions to their business.
